

Inviting Inquiry:

What Life Cycle Stage Are Our Salmon In?

The salmon tank is a fantastic resource for encouraging inquiry among students. Especially if your tank is in a high-traffic area, don't miss the opportunity to engage students and teachers as they walk by.

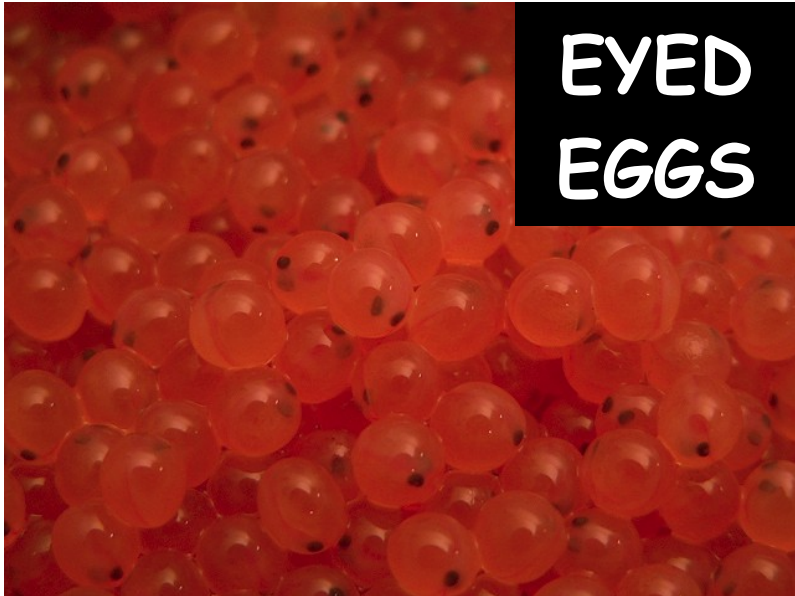

One way to invite inquiry is simply having questions posted on/near the tank. For example, teachers at Crestline Elementary posted the question, "What stage of the life cycle do you think our salmon are in?" along with photos of each life cycle stage on the tank stand. You can find high quality life cycle photos at the end of this document (or find different ones on Google images, like the Crestline teachers!).
